HANDMADE IRISH JEWELLERY

CONNEMARA MARBLE COLLECTION

My name's Niall Gleeson and my beadwork jewellery is handcrafted in the shadow of Bunratty Castle in Co Clare.
My interest in gemstone jewellery began many years ago when my mother would take me on shopping trips looking at all kinds of jewellery and other craftwork as she was a skilled crafter herself; she was a gifted knitter and embroiderer.

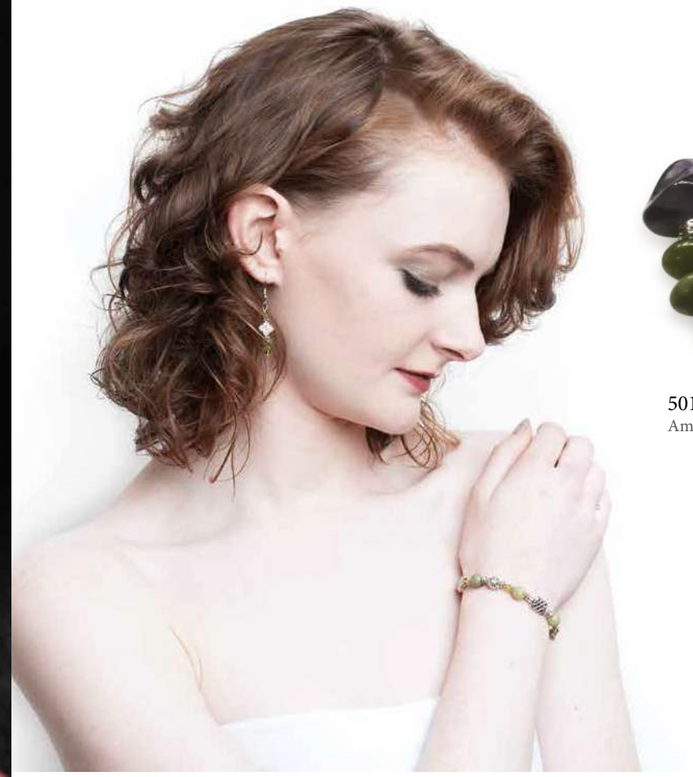

I was still a child when I subscribed to a magazine called 'Treasures of the Earth'. Each week, you'd get a sample of a different gemstone. I was entranced. I became fascinated with the different colours and shapes of each gemstone.

The qualities and characteristics of each stone mesmerised me. Years later, I decided to continue the family tradition of crafting and set up my own business, designing and producing beadwork jewellery. My designs incorporate carefully chosen gemstones and ancient symbols to create unique Celtic jewellery.

I chose the word " Galánta " as it is the Gaelic word for elegant: the beauty that never fades. I use symbols such as Celtic knotworks which represent the timeless nature of all our spirits.

The Celtic spiral symbolises growth, birth and enlightenment and the Claddagh inspires me because it represents love, loyalty and friendship. The gemstones I've chosen represent the different tints, tones and shades of green in our beautiful landscape – yes, a rain shower can really do that to our scenery!

All metals used are lead, nickel and cadmium-free.
Antique silver Celtic beads include a content of pure silver which gives a quality and a lasting finish to your jewellery.
